For the first time in its history, the Florida Defense Lawyers Association has created a Corporate Membership. In order to be eligible for Corporate Membership, an employee of a corporation, insurance company, group of insurance companies under common management or trade association which subscribes to the purposes of the FDLA may become a corporate member. Your organization is invited to be a Charter Corporate Member.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP FOR YOUR ORGANIZATION

- Education – In addition to the annual Florida Liability Claims Conference, which generates continuing education credits for insurance professionals and attorneys, the FDLA has a number of seminars annually on timely topics. Our seminars are presented regionally throughout the year.
- Information Sharing System – FDLA members share information on topics and witnesses daily.
- Trial Advocate Quarterly – This scholarly and practical magazine provides thoughtful and well-researched articles on subjects of interest to its members.
- Legislative Action Committee – The FDLA monitors and tracks legislation of interest to its members both prior to and during legislative sessions and sends copies of the proposed bills directly to interested members.
- Substantive Law Committees – The FDLA has practice committees focused on diverse areas of the law that provide for a valuable network for the exchange of current information and ideas.
- Amicus Appellate Brief Program – Seasoned appellate specialists review topics of interest to the membership and provide amicus appellate briefs.
- FDLA Website – The FDLA website, which has a Members Only section, provides opportunities to post messages and questions, search for information on topics or witnesses, and permits members to post and access court rulings as well as briefs on various topics.
- Communication and Interaction – The premier civil defense attorneys in the State of Florida share time socially and professionally with other members.
